Dear ,

Greetings from the I-STEM Team. The Indian Science Technology and Engineering facilities Map (I-STEM) is a one-of-a-kind web portal launched by the Honourable Prime Minister of India, Shri Narendra Modi, on Jan 3rd, 2020 with the objective of channelising the R&D activities in the country using the Facilities Map and promoting product development by researchers and by industry. This would be facilitated through platforms developed for a Digital Catalogue of indigenous technologies and for Science and Technology Clusters, making them integral parts of the unique I-STEM portal. Thus, commercialised indigenous products are linked with the Govt. e- Market (GeM), as part of the drive to achieve an Aatmanirbhar Bharat (Self-reliant).

This digital infrastructure/platform is a two-way interactive and informative web portal with multi-fold functionalities (integrated with an online payment gateway) to locate and use R&D equipment available across the country for a nominal fee, which is decided by the custodian institution. Along similar lines, the registered products/services listed by any company will be made available to users through supplier and service provider maps. The portal will host a library of standards to standardize the characterisation of specimens, which will help industry and start-ups as well as researchers to make accurate measurements during development of prototypes and technology products. For more details, kindly visit the web-portal: www.istem.gov.in

We have enclosed a complimentary copy of "Electronics for You", which features an advertisement for I-STEM providing various details on I-STEM. We request you to register your esteemed organisation and its R&D resources and Students and Faculty members on the portal, and nominate a person as your Institute Representative for I-STEM, so that the person may become a single source of interaction and information.

For any further support, please do not hesitate to call the Nodal Centre via the telephone numbers and email address given below.

Sincerely yours,

(Dr. Sanjeev Kumar Shrivastava)
