Child Safety: Educate students on recognizing and addressing good touch and bad touch to promote child safety.

B.Ed and M.Ed students from Indhira College embarked on a mission to educate school children about recognizing and addressing good touch and bad touch to enhance child safety. Through interactive sessions, they sensitively conveyed the importance of distinguishing between safe and inappropriate touches. Using age-appropriate language and activities, they empowered the young minds to speak up and seek help when faced with uncomfortable situations. By fostering open communication and instilling confidence, these students played a crucial role in equipping children with the knowledge and skills to safeguard themselves, ultimately contributing to creating a safer environment for all.

LOW COST AND NO COST MATERIALS

As part of waste management initiatives at Indhira College of Education, B.Ed students are being encouraged to engage in creative projects using various waste materials. Through workshops and practical sessions, students learn how to repurpose items like plastic bottles, cardboard, and paper into useful and innovative products. They are taught techniques such as upcycling, composting, and eco-bricking to minimize waste and promote sustainability. These hands-on activities not only foster creativity and problem-solving skills but also instill a sense of environmental responsibility among the students. By empowering B.Ed students to explore alternative uses for waste materials, the college cultivates a culture of resourcefulness and eco-consciousness within its community.
